I. SUMMARY AND BACKGROUND

A. Purpose and Summary
The bill H.R. 6309, as reported by the Committee on Ways and Means, expands access to Health Savings accounts (HSAs) for working seniors enrolled in Medicare Part A.

B. Background and Need for Legislation
Individuals and families who enroll in a high-deductible health plan (HDHP) that meets certain requirements are able to make contributions to an HSA. These accounts allow for pre-tax contributions, tax-free investment earnings, and tax-free distributions for future qualified medical expenses. Anyone enrolled in any part of Medicare is prohibited from contributing to an HSA, even if their primary source of health insurance is an HDHP.

According to a survey of 52 health insurers conducted by America’s Health Insurance Plans (AHIP), 21.8 million people were covered by a HDHP with an HSA as of January 2017. These plans and accounts are an increasingly popular option for workers and enrollment growth shows no sign of slowing. A survey of employer-sponsored health benefits found that 17 percent of all employers offered a HDHP with an HSA in 2017 compared to 2 percent in 2005.

HSA account holders are diverse. According to WageWorks, Inc., the administrator of benefits for more than 7 million people, the median household income for an HSA accountholder is $57,060. In addition, a JCT analysis found that of the tax returns that took an HSA deduction in 2015, 71 percent of the returns reported an income of $200,000 or less, and 28 percent reported an income of $75,000 or less. Account holders are also distributed across age groups, with nearly a third between the ages of 25–44 and another third of account holders between the ages 45–64.

Most critically, research has consistently found that such coverage, which empowers individuals and families to be more engaged health care consumers, is capable of significantly reducing health care costs.

C. LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

Background

H.R. 6309 was introduced on July 6, 2018, and was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Committee action

The Committee on Ways and Means marked up H.R. 6309, the “Allowing Working Seniors to Keep Their Health Savings Account Act of 2018,” on July 11, 2018, and ordered the bill, as amended, favorably reported (with a quorum being present).

Committee hearings

The policy issues associated with Health Savings Accounts (HSAs) and need for legislative response were discussed at the following Ways and Means hearings during the 114th and 115th Congresses:

- Full Committee Hearing on the Tax Treatment of Health Care (April 14, 2016)
- Subcommittee on Health Member Day Hearing on Tax-Related Proposals to Improve Health Care (May 17, 2016)
- Subcommittee on Health Hearing on Rising Health Insurance Premiums Under the Affordable Care Act (July 12, 2016)
- Subcommittee on Health Hearing on Lowering Costs and Expanding Access to Health Care through Consumer-Directed Health Plans (June 6, 2018)

II. EXPLANATION OF THE BILL

A. INDIVIDUALS ENTITLED TO PART A OF MEDICARE BY REASON OF AGE ALLOWED TO CONTRIBUTE TO HEALTH SAVINGS ACCOUNTS

Present Law

Health savings accounts

An individual with a high deductible health plan and no other health plan (other than a plan that provides certain permitted insurance or permitted coverage) may establish a health savings account ("HSA"). Subject to limits, contributions to an HSA made by or on behalf of an eligible individual are deductible in determining adjusted gross income of the individual (that is, an “above-the-line” deduction). Contributions to an HSA by an employer for an employee (including salary reduction contributions made through a cafeteria plan) are excludible from income and from wages for employment tax purposes.

HSA contributions are subject to annual limits that are adjusted to reflect annual cost-of-living increases. For 2018, the limit on annual contributions that can be made to an HSA is $3,450 in the case of self-only coverage and $6,900 in the case of family cov-
The annual contribution limits are increased by $1,000 for individuals who have attained age 55 by the end of the taxable year (referred to as “catch-up” contributions). Contributions, including catch-up contributions, cannot be made once an individual is enrolled in Medicare.

Individuals eligible for HSAs

Individuals eligible for HSAs are individuals who are covered by a high deductible health plan and no other health plan that (1) is not a high deductible health plan and (2) provides coverage for any benefit which is covered under the high deductible health plan. After an individual has attained age 65 and becomes enrolled in Medicare benefits, contributions can no longer be made to the individual’s HSA. That is the rule whether the individual may still be working and participating in an employer-sponsored high deductible health plan or whether that person has forgone Parts B, C, and D of Medicare and purchased their own high deductible health plan in the individual market.

An individual who is receiving retirement benefits from Social Security or the Railroad Retirement Board is automatically enrolled in both Medicare Part A and Part B starting the first day of the month in which he or she turns 65.

When an individual is automatically enrolled in Medicare at age 65, the amount that can be deducted by that individual for contributions to the HSA drops to zero for the first month (and each subsequent month) that the individual is entitled to Medicare benefits.

The Committee believes connecting consumers to their health care dollars through consumer-directed health plans, including high deductible health plans, reduces health care costs. The Committee further believes that HSAs are an important tool used in conjunction with high deductible health plans to permit consumers to set aside funds and provide such consumers the choice on how to spend those funds to pay for medical care.

An individual with a high deductible health plan who has other coverage, including entitlement to Part A of Medicare by reason of his or her age is not allowed to contribute to a health savings account. The Committee believes that the rules for HSAs should be expanded to permit individuals who participate in high deductible health plans but who only become entitled to Part A of Medicare by reason of attaining a particular age be able to contribute to See sec. 223(b)(7), as interpreted by Notice 2004–2, 2004–2 I.R.B. 269 (December 22, 2003) corrected by Announcement 2004–67, 2004–36 I.R.B. 459 (September 7, 2004) (“After an individual has attained age 65 and becomes enrolled in Medicare benefits, contributions, including catch-up contributions, cannot be made to an individual’s HSA.”). See also Notice 2004–50, 2004–33 I.R.B. 1 (August 9, 2004), Q&A–2 (“Thus, an otherwise eligible individual under section 223(c)(1) who is not actually enrolled in Medicare Part A or Part B may contribute to an HSA until the month that individual is enrolled in Medicare.”) and Notice 2008–59, 2008–29 I.R.B. 123 (June 25, 2008), Q&A–5 and Q&A–6 (“[A]n individual is not an eligible individual under section 223(c)(1) in any month during which such individual is both eligible for benefits under Medicare and enrolled to receive benefits under Medicare,” including Part D or any other Medicare benefit.).

HSAs so that they may continue to set aside funds to pay for their medical care.

EXPLANATION OF PROVISION

Under the provision, with respect to an individual who is Medicare eligible but enrolled only in Medicare Part A hospital insurance benefits, the allowable deduction for contributions to an HSA does not become zero during any month for such individual. Such an individual is also considered as not having a health plan or other coverage that the high deductible health plan also provides that would cause that individual to fail to be an eligible individual for purposes of making contributions to an HSA. Thus, an individual eligible for Medicare by reason of being age 65 or over but enrolled only in Medicare Part A would not fail to be treated as eligible to make HSA contributions merely by reason of such enrollment in Medicare Part A.

EFFECTIVE DATE

The provision applies to months beginning after December 31, 2018, in taxable years ending after such date.

Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the following statement is made by the Joint Committee on Taxation with respect to the provisions of the bill amending the Internal Revenue Code of 1986: The gross budgetary effect (before incorporating macroeconomic effects) in any fiscal year is less than 0.25 percent of the current projected gross domestic product of the United States for that fiscal year; therefore, the bill is not “major legislation” for purposes of requiring that the estimate include the budgetary effects of changes in economic output, employment, capital stock and other macroeconomic variables.

B. STATEMENT REGARDING NEW BUDGET AUTHORITY AND TAX EXPENDITURES

In compliance with clause 3(c)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee states that the bill involves no new or increased budget authority. The Committee further states that the revenue-reducing tax provision involves no new tax expenditure.

C. COST ESTIMATE PREPARED BY THE CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE

In compliance with clause 3(d) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the following statement is made concerning the effects on the budget of the bill, H.R. 6138, as reported. As of the filing of this report, the Committee had not received an estimate prepared by the Congressional Budget Office (CBO).

V. OTHER MATTERS TO BE DISCUSSED UNDER THE RULES OF THE HOUSE

A. COMMITTEE OVERSIGHT FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Pursuant to clause 3(c)(1) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee advises that the findings and recommendations of the Committee, based on oversight activities under clause 2(b)(1) of rule X of the Rules of the House of Representatives, are incorporated into the description portions of this report.

B. STATEMENT OF GENERAL PERFORMANCE GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

With respect to clause 3(c)(4) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee advises that the bill contains no measure that authorizes funding, so no statement of general performance goals and objectives for which any measure authorizes funding is required.

C. INFORMATION RELATING TO UNFUNDED MANDATES

This information is provided in accordance with section 423 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (Pub. L. No. 104–4). The Committee has determined that the bill does not contain Federal mandates on the private sector. The Committee has determined that the bill does not impose a Federal intergovernmental mandate on State, local, or tribal governments.
D. APPLICABILITY OF HOUSE RULE XXI 5(b)

Rule XXI 5(b) of the Rules of the House of Representatives provides, in part, that “A bill or joint resolution, amendment, or conference report carrying a Federal income tax rate increase may not be considered as passed or agreed to unless so determined by a vote of not less than three-fifths of the Members voting, a quorum being present.” The Committee has carefully reviewed the bill and states that the bill does not involve any Federal income tax rate increases within the meaning of the rule.

E. TAX COMPLEXITY ANALYSIS

Section 4022(b) of the Internal Revenue Service Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998 (“IRS Reform Act”) requires the staff of the Joint Committee on Taxation (in consultation with the Internal Revenue Service and the Treasury Department) to provide a tax complexity analysis. The complexity analysis is required for all legislation reported by the Senate Committee on Finance, the House Committee on Ways and Means, or any committee of conference if the legislation includes a provision that directly or indirectly amends the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 and has widespread applicability to individuals or small businesses.

Pursuant to clause 3(h)(1) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the staff of the Joint Committee on Taxation has determined that a complexity analysis is not required under section 4022(b) of the IRS Reform Act because the bill contains no provisions that amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 and have “widespread applicability” to individuals or small businesses, within the meaning of the rule.

F. CONGRESSIONAL EARMARKS, LIMITED TAX BENEFITS, AND LIMITED TARIFF BENEFITS

With respect to clause 9 of rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee has carefully reviewed the provisions of the bill and states that the provisions of the bill do not contain any congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits within the meaning of the rule.

G. DUPLICATION OF FEDERAL PROGRAMS

In compliance with Sec. 3(c)(5) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee states that no provision of the bill establishes or reauthorizes: (1) a program of the Federal Government known to be duplicative of another Federal program, (2) a program included in any report from the Government Accountability Office to Congress pursuant to section 21 of Pub. L. No. 111–139, or (3) a program related to a program identified in the most recent Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance, published pursuant to section 6104 of title 31, United States Code.

H. DISCLOSURE OF DIRECTED RULE MAKINGS

In compliance with Sec. 3(i) of H. Res. 5 (115th Congress), the following statement is made concerning directed rule makings: The Committee advises that the bill requires no directed rule makings within the meaning of such section.
VI. CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW MADE BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED

B. CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW PROPOSED BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED

In compliance with clause 3(e)(1)(B) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, changes in existing law proposed by the bill, as reported, are shown as follows (existing law proposed to be omitted is enclosed in black brackets, new matter is printed in italics, existing law in which no change is proposed is shown in roman):

CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW MADE BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED

In compliance with clause 3(e) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, changes in existing law made by the bill, as reported, are shown as follows (existing law proposed to be omitted is enclosed in black brackets, new matter is printed in italic, and existing law in which no change is proposed is shown in roman):

(A) the aggregate amount paid for such taxable year to Archer MSAs of such individual,

(A) In General.—For purposes of computing the limitation under paragraph (1) for any taxable year, an individual who is an eligible individual during the last month of such taxable year shall be treated—

(i) as having been an eligible individual during each of the months in such taxable year, and

(ii) as having been enrolled, during each of the months such individual is treated as an eligible individual solely by reason of clause (i), in the same high deductible health plan in which the individual was enrolled for the last month of such taxable year.

(B) Failure to Maintain High Deductible Health Plan Coverage.—

(i) In General.—If, at any time during the testing period, the individual is not an eligible individual, then—

(I) gross income of the individual for the taxable year in which occurs the first month in the testing period for which such individual is not an eligible individual is increased by the aggregate amount of all contributions to the health savings account of the individual which could not have been made but for subparagraph (A), and

(II) the tax imposed by this chapter for any taxable year on the individual shall be increased by 10 percent of the amount of such increase.

(ii) Exception for Disability or Death.—Subclauses (I) and (II) of clause (i) shall not apply if the individual ceased to be an eligible individual by reason of the death of the individual or the individual becoming disabled (within the meaning of section 72(m)(7)).

(iii) Testing Period.—The term “testing period” means the period beginning with the last month of the taxable year referred to in subparagraph (A) and ending on the last day of the 12th month following such month.

(c) Definitions and Special Rules.—For purposes of this section—

(1) Eligible Individual.—
(A) IN GENERAL.—The term “eligible individual” means, with respect to any month, any individual if—
(i) such individual is covered under a high deductible health plan as of the 1st day of such month, and

(1) which is not a high deductible health plan, and
(2) which provides coverage for any benefit which is covered under the high deductible health plan.

(B) CERTAIN COVERAGE DISREGARDED.—Subparagraph (A)(ii) shall be applied without regard to—
(i) coverage for any benefit provided by permitted insurance,
(ii) coverage (whether through insurance or otherwise) for accidents, disability, dental care, vision care, or long-term care,
(iii) for taxable years beginning after December 31, 2006, coverage under a health flexible spending arrangement during any period immediately following the end of a plan year of such arrangement during which unused benefits or contributions remaining at the end of such plan year may be paid or reimbursed to plan participants for qualified benefit expenses incurred during such period if—
(I) the balance in such arrangement at the end of such plan year is zero, or
(II) the individual is making a qualified HSA distribution (as defined in section 106(e)) in an amount equal to the remaining balance in such arrangement as of the end of such plan year, in accordance with rules prescribed by the Secretary, and

(C) SPECIAL RULE FOR INDIVIDUALS ELIGIBLE FOR CERTAIN VETERANS BENEFITS.—An individual shall not fail to be treated as an eligible individual for any period merely because the individual receives hospital care or medical services under any law administered by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs for a service-connected disability (within the meaning of section 101(16) of title 38, United States Code).

(2) HIGH DEDUCTIBLE HEALTH PLAN.—
(A) IN GENERAL.—The term “high deductible health plan” means a health plan—

DISSENTING VIEWS

H.R. 6309 Allowing Working Seniors to Keep Their Health Savings Account

H.R. 6309 (Paulsen, R–MN) allows individuals enrolled in Medicare Part A to continue to contribute to a Health Savings Account (HSA) while enrolled in a qualifying High-Deductible Health Plan (HDHP) through their employer. Current law prohibits Medicare beneficiaries (non-high deductible insurance) from having both a secondary payer and an HSA. This bill mainly affects people who are drawing their Social Security benefits (thus, they are receiving Medicare Part A) but are still working.

Legislation busts the deficit to benefit the wealthy, again. Altogether the 11 bills the Committee marked up would add another $92 billion in unoffset tax cuts to the deficit. Attempts to expand HSAs (and encourage more enrollment in plans with high deductibles, covering very few up-front health costs) represent a continuation of Republicans’ platform of shifting families into health plans that provide fewer health benefits and higher out-of-pocket costs—while providing greater tax benefits for higher-income individuals and corporate-special interests. According to 2014 Treasury data, only five percent of families with adjusted gross income of under $100,000 held money in an HSA, and those users’ average account balances were $1,700.

Does nothing to undo Republican attacks on Medicare. Republicans have repeatedly attacked Medicare, threatening health care for 58 million seniors and individuals with disabilities. As a result of the Republican tax bill, the Medicare Trust Fund’s solvency has been slashed by three years. Additionally, the Republican’s health care repeal bill would have cut three years from Medicare’s Trust Fund. It also would have allowed insurance companies to charge older Americans five times more for their insurance. Contrast this with the Democrats’ effort to strengthen Medicare; the Affordable Care Act added 12 years to the Medicare Trust Fund.

HDHPs and HSAs do not promote healthy behavior. It is widely acknowledged that HSAs and HDHPs lead consumers to delay care. They do not encourage individuals to make better health care decisions, as Republicans’ “skin in the game” talking points assert. Decades of research show that exposure to high out-of-pocket costs leads consumers to delay or forgo both necessary and unnecessary care. Delaying care and increasing costs run counter to Democratic policy goals of better coordinated, high-value affordable care for American families. This legislation demonstrates why HDHPs in their current format do not allow consumers to see value in their health insurance.

According to the American Hospital Association, “Hospitals and health systems report that increased enrollment in HDHPs over the past several years has reduced access to care and subjected patients to costs they cannot afford. In addition, patients enrolled in HDHPs appear to delay care until they have reached their deductible or are in an emergency situation, which could lead to poorer health outcomes."

HSAs mostly benefit high-income taxpayers while doing little to help moderate-income families or seniors. High-income people can best afford to save for health care expenses and are therefore the most likely to contribute to HSAs. Higher income filers are much more likely to establish HSAs than lower income filers—70 percent of HSA contributions come from households with incomes over $100,000, according to the Joint Commission on Taxation (JCT)—and they are also likelier to max out their contributions. Additionally, high-income people receive the biggest tax benefit for each dollar contributed to an HSA because the value of a tax deduction rises with an individual’s tax bracket. For seniors with an existing HSA, the funds in these accounts can be used tax-free to pay for Medicare-related expenses but few seniors benefit from these accounts. The average Medicare beneficiary has an income just above $25,000 and fewer than 68 percent have incomes above $50,000 much less $100,000, which is only 5 percent of Medicare beneficiaries.

JCT estimates the cost of this bill to be $5.5 billion over 10 years. With this bill, Republicans are adding more tax cuts and increasing the deficit. Republicans are using the deficit, which they keep making larger with cuts for the wealthy, to justify the deep cuts they plan to make to Medicare and Medicaid. Republicans already are proposing to cut Medicare and Medicaid by nearly a trillion dollars to try to pay for the tax cuts they've already enacted. This bill will only increase Republicans' call for further cuts to these critical programs.

Mr. Larson (D–CT) offered an amendment to require the reduction in solvency of the Medicare Trust Fund resulting from enactment of the Republican Tax Cut (Public Law 115–97) be reversed before the provisions of the underlying bill could take effect. This amendment would only allow this bill to go forward if Medicare is protected and the three years cut from the Trust Fund by the Republican tax bill are restored. This is an important step to protecting seniors. The amendment was ruled non-germane. The appeal of the ruling of the chair was defeated.
