

Dee Davis is president of the Center for Rural Strategies which publishes the Daily Yonder and manages the Rural Assembly. Dee serves on the boards of the Fund for Innovative TV, Institute for Work & the Economy, the East Kentucky Leadership Foundation, the publication Southerly, Feral Arts of Queensland, Australia, and on the Commission on the Practice of Democratic Citizenship. Dee is the past board president of the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation and the Independent Television Service. He started his career at Appalshop, and Appalachian cultural center where he served as president and the executive producer of Appalshop Films. Dee lives in Whitesburg, Kentucky.